Newsletter February 2026

This month Garden Club members and guests were treated to a talk about the progress of the Two Moors Pine Marten Project, given by Daniel Brown. He is an expert in the subject, talking from lived experience and we found it entertaining and informative to see the behaviour of the pine martens, captured on webcams. We also saw how they move about the landscape after their release, due to their tracking collars sending out signals, some covering great distances before establishing their territories.

What to do in the garden

It's the time of year to prune fruit trees and roses, there are good guides on the RHS website.

Seed planting for this year's crops and flowers is underway, the result of all that catalogue browsing and planning last month.

I've also noticed that the mild wet weather means that those pesky weeds are growing, time to get the hoe out!

Let's hope for a lot more sunshine in the coming weeks so we can be outside listening to the birds building-up for spring.

Hibly
